

Welcome to Social Inequality SOC 336L 2024, the condensed on line summer version. My name is Professor Paul LoBianco LCSW-R and I have been teaching as an adjunct at Marist for over ten years in the School of Social and Behavioral Sciences. I am a Licensed Clinical Social Worker and am currently employed as a therapist in New York. Aside from being a therapist, I have worked in a nursing home, an inner-city clinic, a community based organization and a pediatric group. The texts for the class are as follows: Zinn,H. (2006). A People's History of the United States 1492- present. New York: Harper Collins Publishers, Inc. ISBN-10: 0-06-083865-5 Rothenberg, P.S. (2020 Eleventh edition). Race, Class and Gender in the United States. New York: Worth Publishers. ISBN-13: 978-1-319-14365-7 I am looking forward to both sharing and learning with all of you over our eight week period.
